Why I decided to become a donor?

I accidentally found out that this is how you can help someone have a child (I wasn't interested in this before and didn't find out specifically). I understand that I have everything for this, my health allows it (I think). It won't affect me in any way in the future. And I can help someone fulfill their dream. So why not do it?

My most vivid memory from childhood

Bright isn't necessarily happy. The death of my beloved grandmother is one of the most vivid memories.
